HIS STORY

As of the Fall of 2022 with his 6th World Champion title, Jordan Burroughs is the undisputed G.O.A.T. (Greatest of All Time) of American wrestling, and he is still going. He is the rare Olympic athlete who has been able to transcend his sport to become an impactful influencer well beyond wrestling. Jordan is an inspiring public speaker, a philosophical thinker, a family man, and a warrior all rolled into one.

From Sicklerville, NJ, just outside of Philadelphia, Jordan is the youngest of four siblings and began wrestling at just 5 years old. He was inspired not by the Olympics, but by the high-flying athletes of the World Wrestling Federation. He attended the University of Nebraska where he was undefeated in both his Junior and Senior seasons, was a two-time National Champion, and was the Hodge Trophy winner (wrestling's Heisman trophy). That same year he went on to win his first World Championship, becoming only the fourth wrestler ever to win an NCAA Championship and World Championship in the same year.

One year later, on August 10, 2012, Jordan won the Olympic Gold Medal in London. He holds the longest winning streak in U.S. history (69 matches).

Today, Jordan is a two-time Olympian and six-time World Champion. In 2023, he'll look to make it 7 World Titles and in 2024, he will once again compete for gold at the 2024 Olympic Games in Paris.

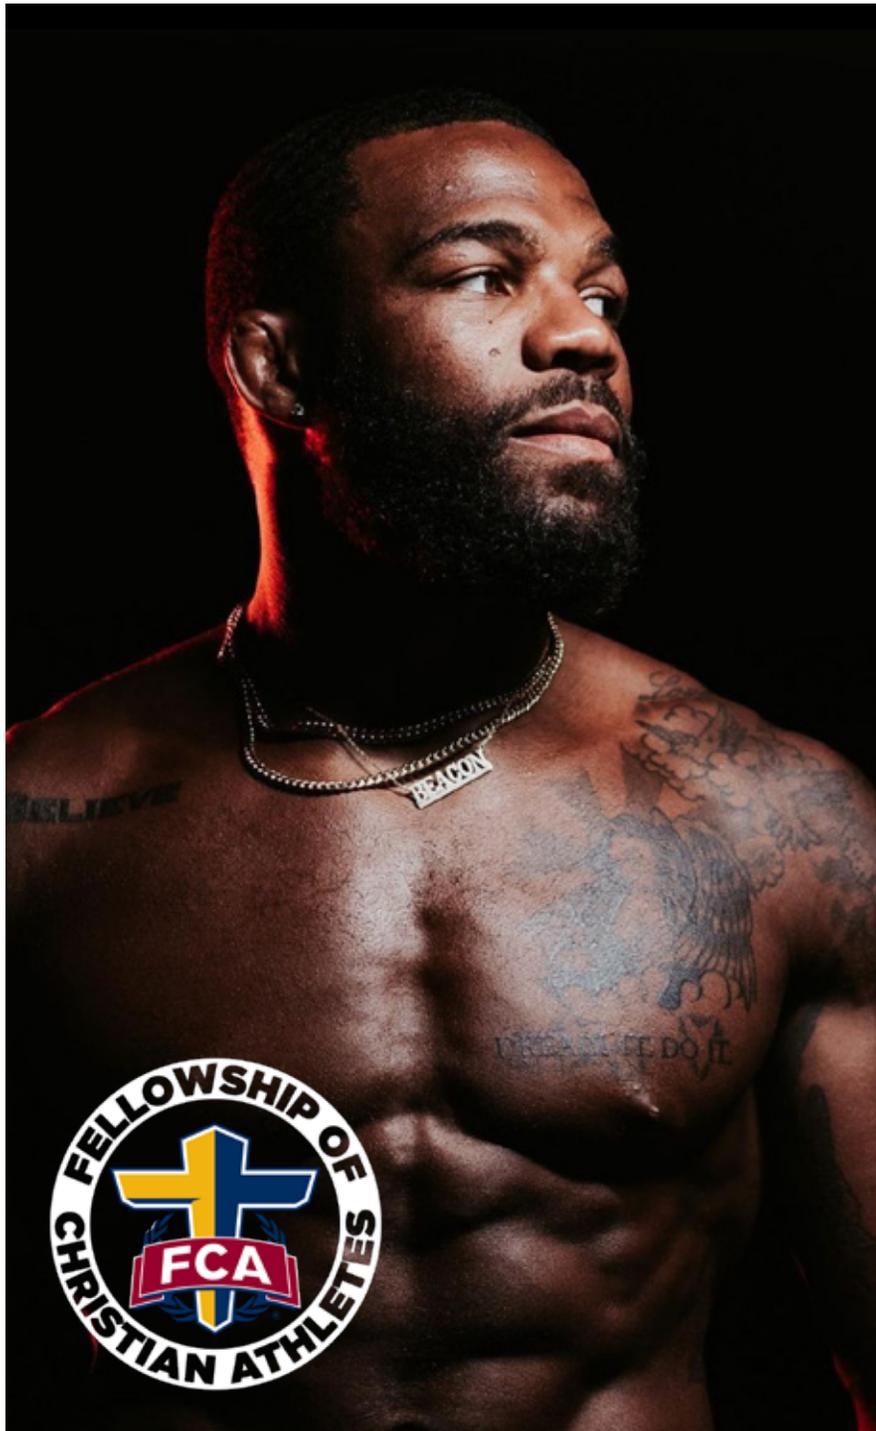

On October 12th, 2013, Jordan married Lauren Mariacher, a Columbia University School of Journalism graduate from Buffalo, New York.

Lauren, who comes from a wrestling family, is a journalist, blogger and social media influencer (www.laurenburroughs.com).

Lauren and Jordan both consider their most important titles to be “Mom” and “Dad.” The couple welcomed their son, Beacon, in 2014, his baby sister, Ora, in 2016, their baby sister, Rise Ivory, in January of 2020, and son Banner in September of 2021.

Though faith was always part of Jordan's life, it didn't become what he now calls 'his foundation' until after he became Olympic Champion and realized the magnitude of influence such an accomplishment carries.

Not long after winning gold, he was invited by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes to host a wrestling clinic. There, he was inspired by the athletes' collective commitment to integrity, teamwork, excellence and service to others. These young athletes were honoring God with their lives. Jordan came to the clinic to teach, and left having learned.

"Today I try to use this platform I've been given as an elite athlete to engage other people to realize their own gifts and talents, and to try to empower them to pursue a life of excellence in all things." - Jordan

The apple didn't fall far from the tree when it comes to Jordan's deep seated love of fashion. As a kid, he remembers his parents always taking the time to dress-to-impress so he tries to do the same.

“I see fashion as this ever-changing sense of expression, and Lauren I have a lot of fun with it. When you take the time to look good, you can feel it. It gives you just a little more swagger with every step.” - Jordan

Clean, healthy, and large-quantity eating is obviously a necessary part of Jordan's success as a wrestler but his interest in food goes far beyond sport. He and his wife love to shop locally sourced foods, prep and cook, and explore unique restaurants in their global travels.

“I love to eat. It’s my favorite hobby and I do a lot of it. I spend too much money at Whole Foods and too much time on Yelp, but when I eat well I feel great...so it’s worth it!” - Jordan

“Because of my success as an athlete people often want to hear what I have to say. I see that as an opportunity to create change in the lives of others through some of the challenges I’ve been through, the experiences I’ve had, and the many great teachers who of influenced my life.” - Jordan

As an Olympic gold medalist and icon of his sport, over the years Jordan has shared his story with hundreds of corporations, schools and sports groups. He has developed into an inspiring keynote speaker on a diverse array of topics including adversity, peak performance, resiliency, and his favorite – leadership. His keynote address, “Don’t Just Lead – Be A Great Leader” shares his battle-tested insights for inspiring others to take on any opponent.
